Mr. Loy V. Henderson
Deputy Under Secretary
for Administration
Department of State
Washington 25, D.C.

Dear Mr. Henderson:

We are gratified to learn that the Department has made a decision to reinstitute the science attaché program. It seems that a vigorous program oriented to include intelligence needs within its mission can contribute significantly to satisfying the intelligence agencies' needs in the scientific field. We shall be pleased to work with you and assist in establishment of procedures for handling the intelligence aspects of the program. To this end I am appointing Mr. Robert J. Jarry, Jr., my Deputy Director for Intelligence, to meet with your designee, Mr. Carpenter.

The lapse of the Science Attache Program last spring has left a serious gap in the intelligence community's collection activity. I am therefore pleased that your proposal looks forward to action and implementation in the immediate future.

Please be assured that the Agency will do all that it can to provide direct assistance to the Science Attache Program both in its inception phase and on a continuing basis thereafter. As you know, I have been personally concerned that this area, which has a significant intelligence potential, remain as productive as possible.

Sincerely yours,

Allen L. Dulles
Director
